FOR LAND AND WATER POLICY

WHERE WATER MEETS LAND

The Babbitt Center's Dissertation Fellowship Program invites applications from doctoral students who are writing dissertations in fields that address the Babbitt Center's interest in improving the integration of land use and water management and policy in the Colorado River Basin. This fellowship program provides an important link between the Lincoln Institute's educational mission and its research objectives by supporting scholars early in their careers.

The Babbitt Center for Land and Water Policy works to advance the integration of land and water management to secure a sustainable water future in the West, throughout the U.S., and the world. Despite an increased recognition of the critical connections between water and land use, the planning and management of these resources remain disconnected. The Lincoln Institute of Land Policy established the Babbitt Center in 2017 to bridge this gap.
