

The Whale Museum's Virtual Marine Naturalist Teachers' Program

Registration is now open!

Presentation videos accessible starting August 22 and available for 6 months

Exciting news! A virtual session of our Marine Naturalist program for Teachers is returning this summer! This high quality program will be entirely virtual with no live components. Presentation videos will become accessible through the virtual platform Whova starting August 22 and be available for 6 months! The objective of this program is to provide a learning experience that enhances your knowledge and classroom lessons. The program highlights the ecology, current status and conservation efforts for the endangered Southern Resident killer whales and other local marine species as well as of the Salish Sea. The course includes presentations on cetaceans, other marine mammals, birds, invertebrates, geology, marine conservation, and more. Faculty includes professionals, experts and researchers.

Thanks to a grant through NOAA, this program is completely FREE for qualified teachers* to participate! Our gift to you for the great work you do!

Registration can be submitted through https://whova.com/portal/registration/mntp_202208/. Please refer all questions to Tracie Merrill, Education Curator (email at tracie@whalemuseum.org). Space is limited to the first 50, so don't wait to reserve your spot! To qualify, participants must be a current Classroom Teacher with a School Affiliation (Public, Private or Home School)*
